

David Huang

Hardworking

Honest

Love home

Age: 48

Work: Construction engineer

Family: Married, Live with family

Location: Taipei, Taiwan

Gender: Male

"I let my son leave me because I was not capable."

Personality

Bio

David is a construction engineer. He has twin sons who are just about to go to college. His wife is a restaurant supervisor, and all their life is very harmonious. Unfortunately, due to the epidemic, the restaurant his wife worked for was closed down. Lost Another economic pillar put a great burden on his family. David had to take care of the family. The two sons started working and earning money because they didn't want their father to pay all their tuition. When he was proud of his sons, one of them was killed in a car accident on his way home from work. This was unacceptable to David. He blamed himself for not being able to take care of them. He locked himself in the room for several days. Even if his relatives come to comfort him, there is no way to relieve him.

Goals

- To stop negative thinking.
- Need to be enlightened by a professional psychologist

Frustrations

- Not used to using internet software.
- Distrust of online consultation.

Preferred Channels

Social Media

Mobile

E-mail

Traditional Ads

